MOBILE MESSENGER, NOT YOUR AVERAGE DELIVERY SERVICE

Chatter™, a San Diego native mobile solutions provider rolled out services with another San Diego native: American Messenger Services. Chatter™ provides the communication solution for package delivery information direct to the delivery representative's mobile device. American Messenger, prior to Chatter™, had a dispatch representative make direct phone calls with delivery notifications and instructions. "Our old process is very tenuous," said Bryan Blair, the owner of American Messenger. "Carriers had to answer their phone, write down the pickup and delivery information then call in again when the process was completed. Then the dispatcher has to call the client with delivery confirmation or changes in the delivery time."

Chatter™ automates this entire process with a simple imbedded text messaging application that utilizes any mobile phones capability to receive and send text messages. Orders are simply entered into American Messenger's desktop order application and then generate delivery notifications though the Chatter™ server. The process is instant and the results substantially reduce labor costs, increase data management and reduce errors.

This solution is only one of many that Chatter™ offer's their clients such as simple log on web tools, site integration of SMS services and proprietary imbedded applications for mobile communication solutions. Chatter's primary tool, www.2chatter.com, allows clients to build, manage, and deploy their own SMS solution utilizing any computer with web access. From this tool a company or individual can send any number of SMS messages worldwide within seconds!

Additional services of Chatter™ include real time surf report, traffic conditions, weather and currently Chatter™ is building the first on demand text enabled city wide mobile directory.
